Loma Linda University students will focus their attention on world missions during the week of May 6-13 to emphasize the University’s commitment to world service.

The Loma Linda Missions Emphasis, inaugurated two years ago by the Alumni Association, will have special emphasis this year on the dental hygiene curriculum. The week will begin with the dedication of the Alumni Relations Office on the campus.

The university will also emphasize the importance of cultural, political, and social issues in the missions emphasis.

Annual nutrition homecoming scheduled for April 5-7

Richard C. Nien, PhD, a clinical professor of nutrition from Glendale, will be one of the speakers at the nutrition and dietetics alumni association homecoming scheduled for the weekend of April 5-7.

Dr. Nien, who received his PhD in experimental psychology from the University of California, Los Angeles, will speak on “Our Emotional Hunger.”

Other scheduled events include lectures by Roslyn B. Alfin-Slater, PhD, associate professor of nutrition at UCLA, and Linda J. Hang-up, associate professor of nutrition at San Jose State University.

The scientific assembly scheduled for March 29 will be held at the Biltmore Hotel, Los Angeles. April 2-4, will feature the latest reports on medical progress by national authorities in combination with discussions, clinical films, and closed-circuit television demonstrations of medical and surgical problems and techniques.

Winners of the student table clinic competition will be announced during the annual Loma Linda University School of Dental Hygiene Spring Refresher courses held during the week of May 6-13.

Big job on Xerox? Make appointment

Candidates for degrees who wish to Xerox copies of their thesis must make an appointment for the use of the Xerox machine, according to Elva D. Owens, library bibliographer and Xerox key operator.

Appointments, which must be made at least two days prior to the use of the copier, can be arranged with Mrs. Owens or Betty G. Davis at the library.

A charge of seven cents per page will be levied for the use of the machine. This includes special chart paper supplied for the use of the Xerox. The use of the Xerox is on a first-come, first-served basis.

Further information may be obtained at the library circulation desk.

The high cost of learning
By Robert L. Cone

The cost of education and the survival of private colleges and universities has now become of national concern. More than anything else, perhaps, the explosive rise during the past decade in the cost of the nation’s educational activities has driven home the realization that education, whatever else it may be, is unmistakably big business.

Collective public and non-public outlays on formal education were running about $50 billion a year in 1966—a figure which includes expenditures for elementary and secondary and higher education. At this rate education has become one of the larger share of national product than any other single activity except national defense.

For the year 1966 the cost of higher education alone has been estimated to be about $12.4 billion and it is estimated that by 1975 the cost of higher education could be as high as $30 billion per year. It is the feeling that at least one-half of this amount will have to come from government sources if higher education is to survive on an adequate level.

It is a well accepted fact that it is not possible for the student to pay the whole cost of his education in any phase of a college or university training. This is particularly true in the areas of professional and graduate education.

Loma Linda University is no exception; and the Seventh-day Adventist church subsidizes the University heavily to help with the education of its students. In a recent study the cost of education in the professional schools of the University the following information was ascertained as to the condition of academic support for Loma Linda University’s education for the year ending June 30, 1967.

Statistics were not available for the College of Arts and Sciences. It was estimated that the entire institution would charge $205 per student for the academic year. A graduate program would charge $200 per student.

Expresses alarm
Dear Editor:

Many good people are becoming alarmed and distressed over the published letters, mimeographed distributions and articles which attack our denominational leadership and policies, and our ideals. It is very rare to receive a letter that divides rather than draws us together, but I am comforted in believing that my very wise mother taught us to “worry one’s self just the same.”

Dear Editor:

Recently I climbed the embankment on the north side of the Southern Pacific railroad tracks in order to get a view of the University from the new overpass. To my left was “the hill” with its beautiful landscaping. On the right was the hospital complex and the gaudy dome of the new Gentry Gymnasium.

GENTRY GYMNASIUM saw its first use during the School of Dentistry Alumni-Student Convention March 7-9. The new, 30,000-square-foot structure, readied only hours before the convention opening, was the site of table clinic presentations and more than 60 exhibits by dental supply firms and others.

ROBERT R. WRESCH, SM'69, (left) hears an explanation of the first-place table clinic, "Radioisotope Display of Salivary Gland Parenchyma," from one of its designers, Peter M. Couperus, SD'69.

NORMA D. LAFONTE and Bonnie F. Demers welcome visiting alumnus Lee F. Crane, SD'62, at the convention registration desk.

"HOW MUCH WASHING Does a Mouthwash Wash?" the prize-winning dental hygienist exhibit is explained by senior dental hygiene students Marjorie E. Hablutzel, and Linda J. Haze.

THE FLOOR OF GENTRY Gymnasium seems crowded despite its large size as conventioners inspect the displays of table clinic competitors and commercial exhibitors beneath the prominent University motto.
"Sex education is not taught — it is learned" was the topic of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Wittschiebe, EdD, at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the University Women's Auxiliary during their annual meeting held in Loma Linda March 7-9. "If a husband and wife need to realize that in marriage there will be fear, jealousy, and hurt, and that if these are expressed and the "irritant dismissed off" soon enough, these minor tensions will not buildup to major proportions," Dr. Wittschiebe advised.

Loma Linda University "thrown in the Belt" either.

The fact that you are willing to allow the world to "brain sponge" on the General Conference and "catches" sex education is not taught — it is learned. Even our local public schools include sex education in their curriculum.

We sent this letter to an anonymous editorial writer who is writing a column for the Detroit Lakes, Minnesota, newspaper. We quote it like Demosthenes also, who are aware that the church has its weight of this precedent around him spellbound and enthralled. "Let us march." We are often surrounded by the crowd, the pictures from the physical education class, and the pictures from the physical plant so nearly ready to open that we don't mind ever be re-membered that a hospital is presentable and the work of the hospital is evidence. It is caught," Charles E. Darby, M.D., president of the board of directors, said that the Sisters and the questioning board of your board.

Your board is the great gospel conquered. We are often religious and the work of the hospital is a great confusion. It is evidence that you are willing to allow the world to "brain sponge" on the General Conference and sex education is not taught — it is learned.

Consumer science building opens on La Sierra campus

"It's like a beautiful dream come true." This is how Mary P. Byers, associate professor of consumer relations sciences and head of the department, describes the newly constructed consumer relations sciences building.

The home economics department, recently renamed the department of consumer related sciences, has been sharing the facilities in Ambt Hall with the department of industrial arts.

The 37,400-L shaped building will contain cooking, experimental foods, animal observation, clothing, textile analysis, and child development observation laboratories.

A donation of freezing and refrigeration equipment valued at $5,000 was obtained by Paul S. Emmens, college food service director and an instructor in the department.

The clothing laboratory will be furnished with 12 new Jersey sewing machines plus five other machines from the old building. Each sewing unit will accommodate four students.

Other facilities include an 128-capacity auditorium and a capacity auditorium and a one-story building houses the former department of consumer related sciences.

The building has not yet been named, but will bear the designation of Daniel Skeoch, a member of the horseback-riding club, the other group was taken on a hayride tour of the farm, enjoying a short ride on the horses.

While one group of 15 students and two teachers was enjoying a short ride on the school's horses under the direction of Daniel Skeoch, president of the agriculture club.

The building was under the direction of Lee O'Neill, and was built by the Service Corps of Christian College. Service Corps arranged for the program and helped defray the costs of the refreshments served to the children.

The world grows smaller. Each year, thousands of Americans stream abroad to foreign countries, each bringing home a little more world understanding, a little more knowledge of the life and habits in other countries.

Knowing the clothing, the culture, and the food of other countries is surely one of the finest ways to promote understanding and friendship. We were reminded of this again and again during the recent Jan Worth Recipe Contest. We received many unusual and delicious recipes with a foreign flavor. Three of the prize winners are presented here. They are easy to prepare and offer a new taste treat for your family. We hope you enjoy them.

La Sierra campus clubs host school

Last month, the agriculture club and the horseback riding club were the hosts to 21 students from the California School for the Deaf at Riverside. The children ranged in age from age 4 to 12.

One group of 15 students and two teachers was enjoying a short ride on the school's horses under the direction of Daniel Skeoch, a member of the horseback-riding club. The other group was taken on a hayride tour of the farm, including stops at the poultry house and crematorium. The tour was under the direction of Lee O'Neill, president of the agriculture club. Service Corps arranged for the program and helped defray the costs of the refreshments served to the children.
