La Sierra alumni to converge for annual homecoming day

The annual alumni homecoming day for Loma Linda University students of the former La Sierra College is scheduled for April 26 on the La Sierra campus at Riverside.

The day’s events will begin with Sabbath School scheduled for 8:30 a.m. followed by the church service at 11 a.m. in the La Sierra Seventh-day Adventist Church. Gerald R. Hardy, AS‘71, will deliver the sermon.

An alumni potluck dinner under the direction of Nancie M. Stites, PhD, will be held at 6 p.m. in the Commons. At 3 p.m., University President David J. Bieber will present a progress report and Alonzo L. Biber, PhD, professor of political science will speak on “Why We’re Here.” The Ministers Church of the Southern California Conference, of which the school is a part, will conduct the service directed by Leon Jones who will speak on “Why We’re Here.”

A sunset vesper service in the La Sierra church will be held at 5 p.m. followed by a free buffet dinner at 6:30 in the Commons.

“Checkers — You Won’t Forget,” an alumni talent program, will begin at 8 p.m. in Hobe Memorial Auditorium.

Activities have been planned by the alumni president Delmar L. Herrick, AS‘53, SD‘74.

Graduation speaker, location announced

University — wide commencement exercises have been scheduled for May 30 to June 1.

At the conferring of degrees Sunday morning in the Anaheim Convention Center, Dean of Students Dr. Aladdin, Jr., PhD, chancellor of the University of California at Irvine, will present the commencement address.

Conservation and bureaucracy services will be held separately on the two campuses.

Vocational nursing program granted full accreditation

Loma Linda University Hospital vocational nursing program early last month received full accreditation by the California State Board of Vocational Nursing and Psychiatric Technician Examiners.

Fifteen members of the first University Hospital vocational nursing class were graduated last May, will receive a certificate from normal tuition and "alumni must become involved, systematically, so we can be counted on regularly."

Dr. Wergeland says: "In my opinion, the evolution of the educational systems in Riverside and Loma Linda into a progressive, modern University is a tremendous achievement. New avenues of communication must be opened. All 10,000 of us alumni must become involved, systematically, so we can be counted on regularly."

In the opinion of the donation of members of the University family during the recent flooding in the Loma Linda area, San Bernardino County supervisor Donald C. Birkerd presents a commendation plaque to President David J. Bieber, Robert E. Fuller, PT’70, represented the many University students who participated in the clean-up operations.

La Sierra advance fund ‘kick off’ date set

April 15 has been chosen as the official “kick off” date for the Loma Linda University Annual Alumni Advancement Fund, according to Floyd L. Wergeland, SM‘32, chairman of the national advisory committee for the annual giving program.

Fifty geographical chairmen have been appointed by Dr. Wergeland to help coordinate the program across the United States. In addition, 450- 500 projects are being selected to help in the program.

"This is not just another fund raising project," Dr. Wergeland says, "although it is the first fund raising project with the total fund raising program of the University.

The purpose of the Annual Alumni Advancement Fund is to encourage consistent, systematic alumni support of the University. "Alumni from all of the University’s schools will be joined in a coordinated effort to raise funds for special projects of the University," Dr. Wergeland says.

"In my opinion, the evolution of the educational systems in Riverside and Loma Linda into a progressive, modern University is a tremendous achievement. New avenues of communication must be opened. All 10,000 of us alumni must become involved, systematically, so we can be counted on regularly."

The divine strategy
The observance of Loma Linda University Day by Seventh-day Adventist on April 12 suggests a thoughtful look at the church's historic preoccupation with the work of benevolence.
Members of this relatively small community have, through the years, placed much emphasis on bringing healing and comfort to a pain-wracked humanity. They fight increasing rare in these days of automation and because they find in service to others a degree of self-fulfillment, its cause, prevention, and cure. She said that those who do "will find a field of labor anywhere. There will be plenty of them, who will need help," she added. "A classic example of this was when the original Adventists found their most faithful servants! Henry the Eighth had a thousand of them."
Samuel Johnson said of "the life of a saint is a life of service to others."
William Whitton, that is Thomas More."
Robert Bolt, a young British master of well-made plays, took the playing place of the above quotation and called it what is doubtless his best known drama. The play began a nine-month engagement in London in November 1961. In 1962 A Man for All Seasons won awards from the New York Drama Critics Circle and from the New York Drama Critics Circle. The play's success was typical of the high praise it elicited; it restored, as in its ultimate form, to the public "the voice of the man with a humorous, music committee, is in charge of the annual talent festival. SOCIAL ACTION CORPS

JO A. ZENT, SAC public relations director, tutors students at the Victoria School in Loma Linda. The tutorial program helps encourage and motivate students with cultural differences and other blocking problems in a school situation.

KEITH K. COLBURN, SM'C70, plays "big brother" to two area youth. The counseling section of SAC works with teens and hippies and provides big brothers or big sisters for children.

The University Campus Fellowship, sensing the multiple needs of people in the Inland Empire, has organized a Social Action Corps, commonly called SAC.

This organization will coordinate the efforts of individuals who want to effectively use their time to benefit others by assisting in various developing programs that combine the enthusiasm of student volunteers and the guidance of experienced professionals.

Working with already established organizations, SAC's aim is to fight poverty, to balance out cultural differences, or in any way aim to fulfill the American dream of equality for all.

SAC functions in five areas — medical, tutorial, counseling, recreation, and social services. Each area is directed by a student and a professional advisor.

Organizations needing volunteer assistance should write SAC, c/o Loma Linda University Hospital, Loma Linda 92354, or phone (714) 796-8333.

SENIOR STUDENT of medicine Warren R. Peters examines a patient at the Frazee Clinic in San Bernardino. The SAC medical services involve work with dental vans, in clinics for teenagers, hippies, and drug users; and as health advisors.

JAMES R. SCHWARTZ, GS, visits with a Loma Linda area resident. The good neighbor services involve follow-up work on the needs of individuals who are referred by doctors and other professional people.

JOAN COGGIN NAMED 'WOMAN OF THE YEAR' BY LOCAL TOWN

Joan Coggin, 40, assistant professor of medicine, has been named California woman scientist of the year by The Mabel Coggin Institute, an auxiliary to the California Museum of Science and Industry.

Dr. Coggin is the fifth woman to be honored by The Mabel Coggin Institute. The group of 42 scientists received the award annually to young women in the field of science. The awards were presented to the museum's summer science workshop program.

As a member of the Loma Linda University heart surgery team, Dr. Coggin has traveled throughout Asia and Greece. The program was started in 1963 in conjunction with the United States Depart- ment of State. More recently, the team was invited by the Greek government to perform surgery in their country in November of 1967.

Dr. Coggin operates the heart-beating machine used in open heart surgery. She also helps the patient before and after surgery, making sure the diagram during surgery, and gives post-operative cardiology care.

First introduced to the medical field by her father, Dr. Coggin, 40, was named medical secretary, Reuben Mathe- son, president of the American Dental Association and his three children, Loma Linda, California 92354.

Those interested in competing dental hygiene students were Ana D. Meehan, Vincent L. Donald, and Kenneth G. Turk for their exhibit, "How Well Educated Are Your Patients . Really?"

Six of the students' exhibits were selected for competition at the recent annual Loma Linda University School of Dentistry Alumni-Student Convention. The students' exhibits included "How Well Educated Are Your Patients . Really?" designed by James W. Petrik, Kenneth G. Turk, and Janet M. Kyle.

Mr. Turk, the second place winner, will represent Loma Linda University in the national student clinic competition at the October meeting of the American Dental Association in New York City. Senior students of dentistry are not eligible to represent the University at the American Dental Association competition.

Loma Linda students have won the first place award for the past three out of four years at the national competition.

Traveling among the competing dental hygiene students were Ana D. Meehan, Vincent L. Donald, and Kenneth G. Turk, five students from College Place, Washington.

Yet another journal has hit the Adventist publications scene. It is SPECTRUM, a quarterly journal of the Association of Adventist Forums. Edited by Mehrotra Caggers, San Bernardino, SPECTRUM was established to encourage Seventh-day Adventist participation in the discussion of contemporary issues from a Christian viewpoint, and to look without prejudices at all sides of a subject, to evaluate the merits of diverse views, and to foster Christian intellectual and cultural growth. It is published to aid the church in its relation to the human situation, and about how to speak to God, and about how to speak the truth in language that is fresh and pertinent to today.

The 1969 winter issue examining a number of timely issues. Blackham Diane T. Goh, PhD, studies the question, "Has Man Created Life?" The University's former president, Gregory T. Anderson, PhD, writes on "The Christian Scholar and the Church." Divergent opinions are expressed by Chuck Sorensen, Donald R. McDermott, PhD, and Emiliano G. Fraz, PhD. In a series of articles on "The Christian and War," SPECTRUM views with alarm the tendency of IDEA colleges and universities to try to offer everything from A to Z. He feels that many programs are not adequately staffed and that quality suffers as the number of curricula increases. He cites the need for a coordinated education system in the church and proposes that the local conference have jurisdiction over all education on the elementary and intermediate levels, the regional conference over secondary education, and the national division over higher education. "Overall coordination should be the responsibility of the North American Division and the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists." Such a program, he argues, would minimize the control exerted over the colleges by union conferences and would place direction in the hands of the North American Division and the General Conference so that the needs of the entire church, not just one union conference, can be considered.

The parent organization of SPECTRUM, the Association of Adventist Forums, was founded to "provide a forum in which thoughtful persons of Seventh-day Adventist orientation will be encouraged to examine and discuss freely, issues and ideas relevant to the church in all its aspects and to its members as Christians in society." Chapters have been established on University campuses throughout the nation. Regular membership is open to anyone who has earned a degree beyond the bachelor's degree or is currently a graduate student. The Association received official denomination approval at the 1967 Fall Council.

SPECTRUM will fulfill its stated objectives and will publish articles that provide a fresh view of issues and problems that concern the Adventist church. It has been heard in many of our churches, and SPECTRUM promise to respect and publish opinions that are honest and conceived and are based on critical, scholarly investigation.

The church has important things to say. We must rediscov- er what they are and develop the language to communicate them effectively," states Alvin L. Kivrin, president of the Association of Adventist Forums from Harvard University. "It is time for the Advent movement to reaffirm its historic commitment to proclaim its present truth and to engage with vigor and imagination in the spiritual and intellectual forces it may face."

Jan Worth Recommends...

Spring is coming and I imagine you may be wondering what sort of dishes might be appropriate to perk up warm weather appetites. Presented below are three prize-winning recipes from our most recent recipe contest. As you can see, each lady has explored by Alonzo L. Baker, PhD, Anderson, PhD, writes on "The Christian Scholar and the Church." It is refreshing and heartening to realize that these voices are being heard by the Adventist church from scholars who are staying by to offer new and significant viewpoints. Jan Worth has heard in many years.
