The grandson of Churchill to speak at La Sierra

English journalist Winston S. Churchill, grandson and namesake of the late Sir Winston Churchill, will discuss "The Continuing Crisis in the Middle East" in College Hall on the La Sierra campus of Loma Linda University, Saturday, November 1, at 8 p.m.

In an effort to establish the truth about Project Whitecoat, a committee of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, under the chairmanship of Neal C. Wilson, vice-president of the North American division, was appointed to investigate the project.

On September 11, Mr. Wilson and six other members of the committee, including two physicians, visit Fort Detrick, and the commanding officer of Project Whitecoat, Colonel Daniel Crozier, U.S. Army.

The results of the visit and interview, along with material evidence submitted by the Army to the committee, have been made public by the investigating committee. One of the members of the committee, and one of the

LLU open-heart surgery team to make goodwill tour of Greece

The Loma Linda University open-heart surgery team leaves next week for a second extended stay at the 1,300-bed Evangelismos Hospital in Athens, Greece.

Invited to Athens by the Greek government, the team will carry on a six-week clinical program including performing open-heart surgeries, lecturing, and demonstrating techniques for Greek physicians.

The open-heart team has also provided similar professional counsel and service, including heart operations without charge, in Pakistan, India, Thailand, and Taiwan. In seven cases, they performed the first open heart surgery ever in that country.

In Asia, the group was sponsored by the United States Agency for International Development, and was aided directly by Lyndon B. Johnson, then vice-president. The first tour of Greece was sponsored by the Greek Orthodox Church.

Heading the heart team on the clinical tour is Ellsworth E. Wareham, MD, professor of surgery. Other team members who also made the 1967 trip to Greece include, C. Joan Coggins, MD, assistant professor of surgery; the second surgeon; Roy Detry, MD, assistant professor of nursing, intensive care cardiac nurse; and Raymond M. Savage, heart-lung machine technician.

New to the team are Allen L. Brandt, MD, associate clinical professor of anesthesiology; Leonard L. Bailey, MD, intern in surgery at University Hospital; Ann J. Ekroth, surgical nurse; D. Larry Miller, SHF; and Richard W. Wrennerey, public information officer.

The Loma Linda University heart team was among a number of university heart teams in the United States which, last year, performed an estimated 15,000 such operations.

Air fares for the international goodwill project will be paid by the Greek government. Other expenses are being met by members and friends of the Greek Orthodox Church.

GC panel denies aid charge to biological warfare test

In recent months, charges have been leveled against Project Whitecoat, a United States Army medical research institute of infectious diseases, by some members of the Seventh-day Adventist Church, that Adventist members of the Army involved in the project are being used as guinea pigs in experiments furthering chemical and biological warfare.

Project Whitecoat, established in 1956 at Fort Detrick, Maryland, consists predominantly of Adventist Army personnel, selected from three U.S. Air Force stations. Nearly 5,000 men have served at Fort Detrick in the project, all on a volunteer basis, since its inception.

Stemming from growing opposition to the draft by certain members of the Adventist church, Project Whitecoat has come under fire for its alleged part in the volatile issue of chemical-bio-

The educated man

Nor was there the temptation greater to consider one's self successful than a graduate of higher education about to embark on a chosen profession, and with justifiable reason.

To complete the rigorous curriculum required of a graduate of one of the schools on the Loma Linda campus, for example, one must spend from 16-23 years of his life getting educated.

But lest the university student read too long in his achievements, a word should temper his thoughts. In his book, "Anthem for the Devil", Frankenstein's creator, an Athenian orator, paused to consider. "Whom do I call educated? First, those who manage well the circumstances which are given to them, who use wisely the judgement which is accurate in meeting occasions as they arise and rarely miss the expeditious course of action.

Next, those who are decent and honourable in their intercourse with their fellow men, and who set above themselves what is unpleasant or offensive in others, and bring themselves as agreeable and reasonable to their associates as it is humanly possible to be.

Those who abuse always under control, and are not unduly overcome by their misfortunes, bearing up under them bravely and in a manner worthy of our common nature.

Finally, and most important, those who are not spoiled by their successes, and who do not desert their true selves, but hold on steadfastly as wise and sober-minded men, reproaching no one in the slightest in the ways of those which through their own nature and intelligence are their birth.

"Those who have a character which is in accord, not with one of these which are the marks of the uneducated, but with those which are the marks of the educated adult and whole men, possessed of all the virtues of a man."

Two day anesthetic course is offered

The medical school of Loma Linda University is offering a continuing education course in Local Anesthesia in General Practice I and II.

The course is designed to review the principles and techniques of local anesthetics in dentistry as well as to give an understanding of the physiology of regional anesthesia with emphasis on classroom clinical practices.

Lectures will be supplemented with movies, slides, and televised demonstrations. Opportunities will be given for discussion of problem cases.

Hospital volunteers are looking for new members

University Hospital Volunteer Service is looking for interested, concerned, and orderly students, preferably members or themselves or themselves of the United States.

"Our Hospital volunteers are looking for interested, concerned, and orderly students, preferably members of the United States. When a rational sentiment of patriotism, a sense of duty, and a desire for a social service is combined, an ideal equation for success is indicated.

"It is interesting to note that this war has progressed through Presidents of both major political parties, and yet we see much the same policies in each administration. Our President is as frank and honest in his answer as he is in our answer. We are, of course, a nation with a democratic form of government, and as such, we believe in the right to free speech and the right to demonstrate against free speech or a free press in a constructive framework.

"We should not, as a Nation, sit idly by and watch our government erode society, earn our bread, the permissiveness of our society, the expanding welfare state, has made an unwise investment, but that it should not have taken up a moderate crowd to Loma Linda University's first political demonstration in the history of the school. The majority of these people, so it seemed, were merely curious as to what the proceedings would be.

"This demonstration was not out of characteristic for its object. The demonstrations are not out of characteristic for their object. They are, in fact, the beginning of a movement which has been developing for some time, and not in our community, our church, our school.
