Safeguarding Personal Privacy
Knowledge is power. This is especially true when you are trying to keep personal information safe in a cyber-world where human hacking and social engineering have become the norm. Young people tend to be both confident and trusting and often give people they "meet" the benefit of the doubt. Because of their trusting nature, cyber-criminals and cyber-bullies can take advantage of these individuals.

Remember you never know who may be monitoring your activities and personal information when you are using the internet on your computer or other wireless electronic devices. Always follow these safe online practice guidelines:

- Never disclose your personal information online
- Images posted online are gone forever
- Only add as “friends” persons you know in real life
- Never meet anyone in person from your online community without your parent’s knowledge and permission
- Restrict your profile settings to individuals you know or those that are on your contact list
- Report inappropriate online activity to your parents or law enforcement agencies

Cyber Bullying Awareness

- Cyber bullying can never be done anonymously
- Often cyber bullying is un-escapable and relentless – 24/7 – thousands of messages
- Cyber bullying can lead to emotional or physical harm to another person or friend and it has event caused death to middle-school students
- Today’s cyber bullying may become tomorrow’s cyber victim
- Cyber bullying can lead to criminal conviction that could impact you for the rest of your life
- Report inappropriate cyber bullying activity to your parents or school faculty
Thinking Before You Act
Remember These “What if” Situations

- My friends know that I was the cyber bully
- My parents, teacher or grandparents knew I was a cyber bully
- What if my actions were reported in the newspaper?
- What if the harmful photo I posted was to appear on the Internet or YouTube?
- What if I was arrested for my actions?
- WWJD – “What Would Jesus Do?”
- Mathew 22:37 -40 – Love your neighbor as yourself
