THINKING LIKE A CRIMINAL

“Mommy, Mommy! What happened?” Cracks slithered away from the baseball-sized hole in the double-paned window, but this was not caused by a baseball.

“Someone tried to break into the church,” my mother explained to me. As a child, I didn’t understand why anyone would want to break into a church. What was there to steal?

Is Your Foundation Firm?

When was the last time you checked the structural foundation of your local church or ministry headquarters? Investing time now to review building maintenance can help prevent accidents and save your ministry thousands of dollars used to repair structural collapses and damaged internal piping.
In this webinar John Dougan, senior risk control specialist at Adventist Risk Management Inc., will walk you through a checklist of items not only easy for the novice safety inspector to understand, but also for the more experienced builder to analyze.

If you work in church ministry, you can easily list many things worth stealing within church walls. Whoever attempted to rob us only made it through one pane of glass because church officers took proper measures to protect our building from crime.

Is your church vulnerable? Do you have preventive measures in place? In this video, David Fournier, manager of client care for Adventist Risk Management Inc., shares what you can do to secure your church building.
