HELLO AND GOODBYE AT PRESS OPEN DAY

Combining a total of 105 years of service to the Stanborough Press, Paul Hammond and Paul Poddar, two long-standing servants of the 120-year-old institution, were applauded with grateful thanks during Press Open Day on Sunday, 7 September.

Outgoing General Manager, Paul Hammond, started at the press in 1957 at age 15. His has been a life of total service and commitment to Adventist publishing, and even in retirement he will still be contributing to the continued success of the Stanborough Press as he hands over the baton to new manager, Elisabeth Sangüesa.

While being thanked by BUC President, Pastor Ian Sweeney, Paul himself managed to take the opportunity to thank UK Sales Manager and Associate General Manager, Paul Poddar who retires this year after 48 years of service.

Both Pauls have been familiar figures to Open Day punters over the years. Popular and warm spirited, they will be missed. However, 'warm spirited' is a phrase that would also describe newcomers to the team, individuals committed to taking the Press forward even in a difficult commercial world that brings new challenges to publishers.

Elisabeth Sangüesa brings years of experience in publishing, and a great love of books, to the role of General Manager. Her vivacious spirit already warmed the hearts of those at Open Day. Formerly serving at the Adventist Publishing House in Spain, for the past four years Elisabeth has been Marketing director for the Stanborough Press. Find out more about Elisabeth in an 'In Conversation' interview on the Hope Channel website.

Charles Bramble comes to the Press from Granovita and is now Finance director. Holloway church are still mourning the loss of Pastor Samuel Ouadjo. With years of experience in publishing and colporteurng he has taken over as UK Sales and ABC Manager. The newest recruit is Carlos Thorpe who only started as International Marketing director a few days before Press Open Day. With a rich experience in sales and marketing, Carlos is bursting with ideas on how to move the Press forward in the coming years.

Plenty more hellos were said during the day as NEC members in particular welcomed back their 'son', Dr
Jeff Brown, who, along with his wife, Pattiejean, led an animated presentation on 'The four love seasons' and other family life issues. Dr Brown is currently President of the Bermuda Conference but has previously served at Oakwood University, Newbold College, and as a pastor in the North England Conference.

There were rapturous 'hellos' for the Croydon Gospel Choir and the announcement that they will be the official TED choir at the General Conference Session in San Antonio, Texas next year. With their stunning harmonies they certainly put a song in the heart for the crowds who left for home armed with reading material, health foods and good memories.

A selection of photos from the day can be found on the Adventist Church's picture gallery. A BUC News interview with Jeff and Pattiejean Brown is also available.

EDMONTON MEMBERS REACH OUT DURING COMMUNITY TRAUMA

The words stood out. They were black and bold on the front page of the newspaper: WOMAN BEHEADED IN EDMONTON. A mixture of thoughts took over, "Is this for real? Maybe the information is slightly inaccurate. I need to say a prayer for the family."

Within the last two weeks there have been three murders that I have heard off: a gang stabbing on the street near my workplace, a drug addict stabbed on the street near my home and now, the one that has shaken the community the most, the beheading of a senior citizen, Palmira Silva, on Nightingale Road.

In troubled times you can do one of two things, bend to the pressure that may overcome you, or stand tall and be a light even though it feels all hope is lost. Edmonton Seventh-day Adventist church took that second choice.

On Sabbath, 6 September, in the midst of a shaken community, and led by local church pastor, Dr Richard de Lisser, the church felt it was not just merely necessary but important to be part of the community.

"The Church is God's appointed agency for the salvation of men. It was organized for service, and its mission is to carry the gospel to the world", Dr de Lisser shared. So instead of fancy shoes and frocks, and a normal day in church, these were swapped for a heartfelt spirit of togetherness and comfortable shoes to spread hope across the local area.

Knocking on doors amongst this small community we heard remembrances of Palmira, a woman whose life was an example to us as Christians. "She always gave what she had...she was a kind lady." Even those who didn't know her name knew of her. Her heart and soul was a reflection of true community spirit.

This day wasn't just for those who we would term as the stalwarts of the church. Junior children, teens, youth and parents banded together to take to the streets of Edmonton. Pamphlets with the simple but powerful title, 'Hope in troubled times' became the message for the day. Members invited the community to join us for a special programme of hope in the afternoon, providing a place where emphasis was on those four letters. A book of condolence was opened and signed in memory of Palmira Silva by both church members and local residents.

The power of togetherness and hope were the words of the day. Church members felt a sense of new purpose. This basic human interaction reminded them of their mission as a Christian Church, to be agents of love, purveyors of hope and reflectors of Christ.

WITH 1,900 LIVES CLAIMED, ADRA SUPPORTS ANTI-EBOLA MEASURES

The deadly Ebola outbreak sweeping through West Africa has now claimed 1,900 lives, more than all previous outbreaks combined. While frightening to hear, that number is set to rise dramatically as the disease continues to spread.

ADRA-UK is working to help Masanga Hospital in Sierra Leone to get back into the fight against Ebola and other infectious diseases. This includes shipping essential hygiene supplies to Sierra Leone... to benefit Masanga Hospital. In addition, part of the funds needed to help with essential infrastructure at the hospital have now been transferred.

Together with partner offices, ADRA Canada and ADRA Denmark, ADRA-UK is providing assistance to Masanga Hospital to fight the Ebola virus.

ADRA Canada arranged with Global Medic to airfreight a pallet of disposable gloves, facemasks and isolation gowns to Sierra Leone. Work to keep patients and staff safe at the hospital is now underway and soon fresh water will be pumped to the wards. Improved solar power will bring essential electricity to the hospital.

Work has started but your help is needed. Please give and support this project.

It's critical for us to support people in West Africa, so I hope you will donate right now to protect lives and prevent more devastation where it's needed most.

Other ADRA partners are also working in West Africa as reported by ANN, the General Conference news service.

DUBLIN GEARED UP FOR CITY OF HOPE CLIMAX

There is a sense of expectancy hanging over Dublin. After many months of preparation, pre-meetings, town centre witnessing, training and prayer, the three week climax to the 'Dublin: City of Hope' programme launches on Sunday, 14 September at the Ballsbridge Hotel.

Sabbath afternoon, 6 September saw members addressing 1,000 personal invitations to contacts that have been built up over the past year. Evangelist Mark Finley, who arrives in Dublin today in preparation for the series of lectures, 'Ancient discoveries reveal the future' states, "We have prayed, prepared, and perspired and God will honour His word and do something special.
Whatever the ultimate results it will be said of our pastors and members, 'they did what they could…'

Pastor Finley also prepared a short video message for the people of Dublin explaining the purpose of City of Hope.

'What they could' has included major pre-meetings with Pastor Finley and the team back in May, various seminars with local leadership through the summer, a special 'Irish' edition of Focus magazine, a series of 'Tough Questions' videos focused towards a Dublin audience, and most recently a Youth Impact project during the last week of August.

Standing at the entrance to Pearse Street Station in Dublin during Thursday morning rush hour, Irish Mission President, Pastor David Neal, is fairly buzzing with excitement. While handing out the Focus magazine to commuters he shared that, "This is the biggest evangelistic programme to ever happen in the Irish Mission." With a big grin on his face he added, "Church members are united and excited. We have seen God's guidance in the planning and now we look forward to the meetings and seeing lives being changed."

The programme will be making an impact beyond Dublin. All lectures and Sabbath services will be live streamed via the http://cityofhope.ie/ website and relayed both to churches and small home groups across Ireland. Viewers are also welcomed from the UK and around the world. The first lecture starts at 7:15 pm on Sunday, 14 September.

Church members across the whole of the British Isles and beyond are invited to spend special time in prayer this weekend, focusing on God's leading throughout the Dublin: City of Hope programme and beyond.

[Irish Mission Communications]
from Leamington Spa Adventist Mission took part in the Warwickshire 'Wolf Run'. Classified as 'wild running', it is a combination of off-road mud runs, trail and obstacle runs. The 10k run covers natural terrain, including open ground, woodland, lakes and thick mud. It is not so much a race as a physical and mental challenge!

The event aims to help various charities. Part of the substantial entrance fee goes to the organiser's nominated charities. However, the runners also raised sponsorship money themselves which will go towards the annual church run Special Needs Camp at Aberdaron, and a Toilet Twinning Project aimed at providing toilet facilities for a village in Congo, Africa. The event also promised to provide that 'good fun element' that helps keep the substantial number of young people at Leamington together as a group.

You would expect all the participants to be classified as youth. However, this was not so! Ages ranged from early twenties to approximately sixty! The event was a complete success. Two hours later, everyone finished exhilarated and exhausted, with no injuries save a few grazes and bruises. The exceptionally warm and sunny weather helped counteract the cold water and mud.

To date the Wolf runners have raised about £100 for Special Needs Camp and enough to provide two toilet facilities in the Congo. As a fitting finish, before leaving the field, people gathered around one of the picnic tables and prayers of praise and thanks were offered to God with promises to return next year!

TRIPLE BLESSINGS AT READING ANGAZA

For Reading Angaza Seventh-day Adventist church members, the summer holiday break of 2014 may be remembered as an important time for revitalizing the church family through three major events. The camp, two weekends of revival meetings, and 10th anniversary celebrations were not only important in isolation, but their sequencing helped maintain an energy level of excitement.

JOINT CAMP FOR ADVENTURERS & PATHFINDERS
From 31 July through to 3 August, the Adventurers and Pathfinder clubs held a camp at Lady's Mile Holiday Park, Dawlish, South Devon. Thirty-eight people attended the camp including 32 children and 6 guardians/adults. Among activities that captivated the young minds were learning about Christian citizenship and Pathfinder cookery. During the weekend they also gained honours in Bible Marking, Hiking, Camping, Swimming and several other recreational activities.

TWO WEEKENDS OF REVIVAL MEETINGS

The camp was immediately followed by two consecutive weekends of spiritual enrichment meetings for the whole church family that commenced on Friday, 15 August and concluded on Sabbath, 23 August. The meetings that ran both Friday evenings and all-day Sabbath became a positive attraction even to non-members.

Dr Denis Chihwai's style of delivery on family life matters left none without wet eyes because of laughter. Young and old were glued to their seats by the catchy presentations. On both Sabbath afternoons Dr Chihwai held two special sessions with young adults aged 12-19. These were away from the main venue so that the youngsters could be free to share the things that matter to them and ask open questions. Clearly successful, the meetings have prompted the request for further sessions.

The Adventist health message was another aspect for the revival meetings. Dr Leornard Bowora assisted by his 4-year-old son, KK, ran the sessions amazingly! Dr Bowora reminded the church of how the Adventist health message is supposed to be the backbone for our witnessing through our lifestyle. "Adventists are supposed to be consultants to the world problems when it comes to healthy living", Dr Bowora insisted.

He anchored his talks on Bible texts coupled with several quotes from Ellen White's wisdom on health. His assistant, KK, supported his dad's ministry by singing songs and reciting quotes from the Spirit of Prophecy and Bible verses.

10th CHURCH ANNIVERSARY

The final weekend of August, Friday 29 - Sunday 31 marked the 10th anniversary since Angaza started as a prayer group in 2004. Friday programmes were captivating, full of church family games, songs and a word of encouragement from Mrs Joyce Mavanza.

Sabbath programmes were rich and vibrant. Morning sessions began at 9:00 am with church family prayer sessions. The Sabbath School pointed to the sweet memories of the humble beginning. There were photo slides and video clips that focused on the six pioneer families. Attendance has now grown to 102. The reports highlighted on the highs and the lows of Angaza's journey. The first baby of Reading Angaza, Amy Mavanza (10), sang a song that reminded of how 'Jesus is the sweetest name of all'.

Among visitors who came to support Angaza for the occasion was the chairperson of the East and Central African Fellowship in the UK, Rachel Musoke. She sang in a ladies quartet, and then also a solo in three languages, 'It is well with my soul' in Luganda, English and Swahili.

The anniversary celebrations culminated on Sunday, by the church family heading to the Butlins resort in Bognor Regis for a day of activities. During the afternoon the church family joined in different social activities. People played all sorts of games. Parents were given opportunities to share games of their childhood. The younger generation joined in fully. Making sandcastles for children, playing football, skipping teams and many more games were sources of enjoyment not only for Angaza members but also families who joined the outing from other congregations. Time to go home was a 'devastating moment' for some children who were having such fun that they just wanted to continue playing.

The Reading Angaza church community continues to praise and thank God. Please feel free to call at Hexham Community Centre, 1a Bamburgh Close (off Hexham Road), Reading, RG2 7UD for worship services next time you find yourself in Reading. For more information visit their church website.

BAD WEATHER NO HINDRANCE FOR ABERDEEN'S FIRST HEALTH EXPO

Rain is hardly a surprise for Aberdeen church members. As the UK's most northerly Adventist church, in a port city that hosts the oil and gas industries for the North Sea, they are used to extremes of weather. However, as Vanrica Searchwell, Aberdeen Health Ministries leader states, "not even adverse weather conditions could stop the positive witness of church members during Aberdeen's first Health Expo."

The Expo on Sunday, 7 September was preceded by a Sabbath focus on health in the local church, Sabbath School being led by Robert and Michelle Sullivan and their family. Part of the presentation included teaching Bible songs from texts based on health. They were a refreshing alternative to the usual hymns. Divine service followed. This included special items and a sermon on 'Optimum Health'. During his discourse, Dr Patrick Lowe highlighted the state of health of the British and American populations at the time when Ellen White received two visions on health in 1863 and 1865. From these visions the books Counsels on Diet and Foods and The Ministry of Healing were written. He highlighted how Ellen White's visions were God's way of restoring basic health principles.

"The Adventist health message deals with prevention and by taking consideration of health, costs will be less in the long run", Dr Lowe emphasised. He then shared the secrets of the three populations in the world where people live the longest. One of these groups is the Adventists who live in Loma Linda, California.

Due to the Aberdeen church building being tucked away from the main streets, the health team decided to use a main shopping square for their Expo. This was located next to a busy arterial road through Aberdeen city centre. As part of preparing for the event a prayer was offered on site the week before by a small group claiming it for God's glory. Within the group was local pastor, Njabulo Ndlovu, and Pastor David Hatch, the Scottish Mission Health sponsor.

On the morning of the Health Expo efforts to set up began very early with the erection of the marquee. Before all was in place the first drops of rain began to fall. Just at that time also the first participant was welcomed and so the process started. The Expo was organised to run from 10:00 am to 4:00 pm. Through those hours there was a constant stream of people wanting to know their health age. So many, in fact, that at ten minutes to the deadline the entry door to the marquee was sealed up to ensure the equipment could be packed away before the time came for the marquee to be taken down.

Despite the bad weather a total of 121 people did the tests to discover their health age. Of that number thirty-eight wished to remain in touch with the church by leaving their contact details. Though some were initially sceptical, they left with smiles and welcomed the initiative. One young woman was moved to tears, expressing how much she needed such an intervention. In addition, a number of passers-by came to investigate and took pieces of literature from a table covered with Ellen White health books, NHS and the British Heart Foundation leaflets.

One visitor, the Lord Provost of Aberdeen, Councillor George Adams stated that he was "very impressed by what took place." He spent time walking around the stations and interacting with the staff.

Between the local volunteers, Drs Patrick Lowe and Tom Tannassee from England, and the Sullivan family who demonstrated another way of worship to God, the weekend blessed church members and impacted the city.

A selection of photos from the day can be seen on the Scottish Mission website.
