Dear Center For,

CONVOCATION REGISTRATION ENDS SOON!

Convocation is coming up fast! There are lots of great seminars to choose from and much to do! To see more info and register see the flyer below. You can also see the full program on the registration page. The deadline for registering online is noon on Tuesday the 4th of June. That's less than a week away, so register now!!!
Weekly Vespers Webcast

This Friday night vespers will feature Siua Latu as our speaker. You do not want to miss it! Join us in person in the tent or view the webcast online at weimartv.com starting at 6:30 pm.

Academy Graduation this weekend

Graduation weekend for the Academy begins this Friday, May 31 with vespers at 6:30 PM. All services for the weekend will be held in the main tent on campus. Sabbath School and Church will begin at 10:00 AM on Sabbath. There will be an afternoon choir/orchestra concert at 2:30 PM, 5 baptisms at 4:30PM at Moses Rock, and the commencement service will begin at 10:00 AM on Sunday. We hope you can join us as we celebrate how God has blessed this year and the accomplishments of the senior class of 2013.

Friday
- Vespers - 6:30 pm - Speaker: Siua Latu

Sabbath
- Sabbath School - 10 am - Senior Speeches
- Divine Service - 11 am - Speaker: Chad Bernard
- Concert - 2:30 pm - Choir / Orchestra
- Baptisms - 4:30 pm - at Moses Rock

Sunday
- Commencement - 10 am - Graduation & Diplomas

Academy News

The academy choir & orchestra held a joint concert with the Colfax SDA Church children’s choir & orchestra on May 16. The choirs shared music pieces with each other and then joined in song to complete the concert. It was truly a blessing to see and hear all the young people from ages 4-18 praising God in song and instrument.
Some of our students participated in installing ceramic tile in Echo Hall a few weeks ago. Echo Hall is a building on the other side of campus that is being remodeled for new classrooms for the college and to solve the space issue we have been having for combined meetings due to the Lord blessing the campus with so many students. :) The students have completed 2 bathrooms. Please pray for the continued progress of Echo Hall as we are at the end of our school year.

Here is a message from the Associate Director of Education of the General Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists. He was an alumni from Weimar and wants to share what he values about this place.

College Graduation

The May 18 weekend was the first College Graduation with four year graduates since Weimar started back up a few years ago. We had 12 graduates from 'Massage and Hydrotherapy', 'Theology' and 'Religion'. These students are now going on for higher education or on to start a job or ministry in their field of knowledge. Keep them and the rest of the students in your prayers as they travel home or to different parts of the world to work for God!
NEW! Blast from the Past is a new section to highlight different pieces from Weimar’s history. Here is an article from May 1979 sharing how you would start a place like Weimar. If you click on the Bulletin logo you’ll be taken to the Bulletin archive. You can click on the article to get a higher quality version to read.

How An Institute Grows

Over the past several months, an increasing number of persons have called or come personally to Weimar to ask questions about the development process. How do you begin such a program as the one at Weimar? Where do you find persons interested in such a project? How do you establish a working financial base? In response to the inquiries, this article has been written.

If you are reading this article, you have in your hands the principles and methods of management. The Weimar Institute Bulletin is our consistent attempt to spread accurate knowledge of what God and people are doing (or not doing) at this place. Soon it will go to thousands of homes monthly. How do people find out? For the element of groups around the world who are starting similar programs, and have asked how to build a widespread and strong support base, here are four basic rules or methods:

1. “Do not be anxious...” (Matt. 6:33-34) The choice of any God-given program is a responsibility, and not ours. He knows best, and He is able to do it. The decision is ours and ours alone. The people to meet each of these needs. The number of successes is not ours to carry, but we do have a vital responsibility.

2. Christ gave His followers full provision for the work and placed upon them the responsibility for its success. So long as they obeyed His word and worked in connection with Him, they could not fail.” (Jas. 1:22)

3. The first step involves homework: making sure you are doing Christ’s particular work for you according to a balanced picture of Christ’s principles. May those who learned these principles as your foundation, then interpret and build upon that base with the help of many Christian brothers.

4. At Weimar, we are serious when we say “if God said it, we believe it.” But we realize one man should interpret what God has said. Weimar has no single charismatic leader, but responsibility is spread out. There is a strong board, advisory boards, and an active administrative committee.

The point is we must be sure we are doing God’s work, in God’s balanced way (to the best of our understanding), acting on divine principle and not financial expedience, individual interpretation, or any other external pressure.

1) All programs such as Weimar must work closely with Church leadership at every level, keeping them apprised of developing programs. Weimar has sought open communication with the denominational leaders, from the General Conference to the local pastor, knowing that accurate information facilitates cooperation and understanding.

2) Set a top priority on educating people in the ideals you have. Lack of understanding is the breeding ground for fear and distrust. Weimar’s leadership has been the systematic sharing of its educational and training programs across the U.S. by selected medical, and administrative personnel.

In the early days of Weimar, requests began pouring in for the “Weimar story and philosophy to be shared. Different staff members were meeting many of the requests, but it was not enough. Richard Frederick was selected to go on a whirlwind three-month tour across the U.S., visiting large Adventist centers and small congregations alike. Within two weeks of the initial decision to send a representative, the finances to cover expenses and a fine economy car were donated for the purpose.

Later, a Weimar team, consisting of Dr. Zane Kime and Richard and Sally Frederick, began offering a full weekend seminar program, emphasizing the gospel and the health message. This seminar included a site tour, mini-cooking school. At each seminar, the “Weimar Story” in slides is presented, and people are given the opportunity to be added to the Weimar mailing list. Often 300-400 names are added per seminar.

3) At Weimar has grown, its methods of sharing have also been diversified. Our staff is still highly mobile, equipped now with multiple copies of the Weimar story in slides.

Weimar College students now do another kind of “information sharing.” They work in the community service organization as volunteers; and a small group of students in song in local churches. Adult health seminars are presented by the students in the surrounding areas.

Here is the last and most basic principle for growing an institution: Jesus said it best. “Give and it shall be given unto you.” Each institution’s ultimate goal must be communicating God’s love—A Person and not just a program. The method must be real service, meeting the felt needs of many people in many ways.

God’s richest blessings await us as we follow these methods.

Veggie Wraps

Mostly-raw veggie wraps wrap a rainbow of veggies and pack a lot of flavor. The mostly-raw BBQ sauce is an interesting combination of ingredients to give veggie wraps an extra punch of flavor.

1. Blend all the ingredients except the sun-dried tomatoes and the dates.

2. Add the sun-dried tomatoes with the olive oil from the jar and pitted dates.
3. Blend again.
4. Spread a generous amount of this sauce on a large flour tortilla or pita bread that is filled with shredded raw or roasted veggies such as zucchini, cucumber, bell pepper, carrots, chopped tomatoes, lettuce, and whatever other veggies suit your fancy. Wrap up the tortilla and get ready for a delicious raw treat!

Ready in: 15 minutes or less

Makes: 6 wraps

Quote of the Week

"God is not dependent upon men of perfect education. His work is not to wait while His servants go through such lengthy, elaborate preparations as some of our schools are planning to give. He wants men who appreciate the privilege of being laborers together with Him—men who will honor Him by rendering implicit obedience to His requirements, regardless of previously inculcated theories.

There is no limit to the usefulness of those who put self to one side, make room for the working of the Holy Spirit upon their hearts, and live lives wholly consecrated to God, enduring the necessary discipline imposed by the Lord without complaining or fainting by the way. If they will not faint at the rebuke of the Lord, and become hardhearted and stubborn, the Lord will teach both old and young, hour by hour, day by day. He longs to reveal His salvation to the children of men, and if His chosen people will remove the obstructions, He will pour forth the waters of salvation in abundant streams through human channels."

- Counsels to Parents, Teachers, and Students 409.1

NEWSTART™ Health Summit & Alumni Week

June 23-28, 2013

Featured Speakers

- Zeno Charles-Marce
- David DeRose
- Kaya Chong
- Cheryl Farley

Register today at newstart.com/summit or call 1-800-525-9192

We love hearing from you! We hope you enjoy reading about what God is doing at Weimar. If you have a comment, story, or question, please email us at
Have a blessed Sabbath and a happy new week.

Weimar Media Team
Jesse Norris
How An Institute Grows

Over the past several months, an increasing number of persons have called or come personally to Weimar asking urgent questions: How do you begin such a program as the one at Weimar? Where do you find persons interested in such a project? How do you establish a working financial base? In response to the inquiries, this article has been written.

If you are reading this article, you have in your hands the principle tool for sharing the programs, goals, and methods of Weimar. The Weimar Institute Bulletin is our consistent attempt to spread accurate knowledge of what God and people are doing (or not doing) at this place. Soon it will go to fourteen thousand homes monthly.

How do people first hear? For the dozens of groups around the world who are starting similar programs, and have asked how to build a wide-spread and strong support base, here are four basic rules or methods:

1) “Do not be anxious then for your heavenly Father knows what your needs are. But seek first His kingdom and His righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.” (Mat. 6:31-33) The success of any Christian project is God’s responsibility, and not ours. He knows the needs, and He has the ways and means—and the people to meet each of these needs. The burden of success is not ours to carry, but we do have a vital responsibility:

“Christ gave His disciples a mission, full provision for the prosecution of the work, and looked upon Himself as the center of that success. In the advice, the workers trusted the Lord and worked in connection with Him, they could not fail.” (DA 883)

The first step involves homework: making sure you are doing Christ’s particular work for you according to a balanced picture of Christ’s principles. Stay close to inspired counsel alone as your foundation, then interpret and build upon that base with the help of many Christian counselors.

At Weimar, we are serious when we say—“If God said it, we believe it.” But we realize no one can interpret what God has said. Weimar has no single charismatic leader, but responsibility is spread out. There is a strong board, advisory boards, and an active administrative committee.

The point is we must be sure we are doing God’s work, in God’s balanced way (to the best of our understanding), acting on divine principle and not financial expediency, individual interpretation, or any other external pressure.

2) All programs such as Weimar must work closely with the Church leadership at every level, keeping them apprised of developing programs. Weimar has sought open communication with the denominational leaders, from the General Conference to the local pastor, knowing that accurate information facilitates cooperation and understanding.

3) Set a top priority on educating people in the ideals you have. Lack of understanding is the breeding ground for fear and distrust. Weimar’s lifeblood has been the systematic sharing of its educational and healing programs across the U.S. by selected medical and administrative personnel.

In the early days of Weimar, requests began pouring in for the “Weimar story and philosophy” to be shared. Different staff members were meeting many of the requests, but it was not enough. Richard Fredericks was selected to go on a whirlwind three-month tour across the U.S., visiting large Adventist centers and small congregations alike. Within two weeks of the initial decision to send a representative, the finances to cover expenses and a fine economy car were donated for the purpose.

Later, a Weimar team, consisting of Dr. Zane Kime and Richard and Sallie Fredericks, began offering a full weekend seminar program, emphasizing the gospel and the health message. This seminar included a six-hour, mini-cooking school. At each seminar, the “Weimar Story” in slides is presented, and people are given the opportunity to be added to the Bulletin mailing list. Often 300-400 names are added per seminar.

4) As Weimar has grown, its methods of sharing have also grown and diversified. Our staff is still highly mobile, equipped now with multiple copies of the Weimar story in slides. Weimar College students now do another kind of “information sharing.” They work in the community service organizations as volunteers; and a small choir uplifts Christ in song in local churches. Adult health seminars are presented by the students in the surrounding area.

Here is the last and most basic principle for “growing an institution.” Jesus said it best; “Give and it shall be given unto you.” Each institution’s ultimate goal must be communicating God’s love—a person and not just a program. The method must be real service, meeting the felt needs of many people in many ways.

God’s richest blessings await us as we follow these methods.
Veggie Wraps
http://newstartclub.com/recipe/1422

Mostly-raw veggie wraps wrap a rainbow of veggies and pack a lot of flavor. The mostly-row BBQ sauce is an interesting combination of ingredients to give veggie wraps an extra punch of flavor.

Ingredients

- 1 c. fresh cherry tomatoes
- ¼ c. onion
- ½ tsp. fresh garlic
- ¾ tsp. jalapeño
- 4 fresh basil leaves
- 1 tsp. salt
- ½ c. sun-dried tomatoes + oil from the jar
- ½ c. dates, pitted
- 6 pita pockets or tortillas of choice assortment of raw or roasted vegetables

Instructions

1. Blend all the ingredients except the sun-dried tomatoes and the dates.
2. Add the sun-dried tomatoes with the olive oil from the jar and pitted dates.
3. Blend again.
4. Spread a generous amount of this sauce on a large flour tortilla or pita bread that is filled with shredded raw or roasted veggies such as zucchini, cucumber, bell pepper, carrots, chopped tomatoes, lettuce, and whatever other veggies suit your fancy. Wrap up the tortilla and get ready for a delicious raw treat!

Ready in: 15 minutes or less
Makes: 6 wraps

Tags: Entrées  Diabetic Friendly  Gluten Free  Nut Free  Oil Free  Soy Free  American