Steve Wohlberg confesses / Milwaukee miracle / 1 million+ listened

Dear friend,

I confess: I make mistakes. Last Friday night I made a BIG ONE, but God miraculously intervened. Here’s the story, if you care to read it.

Last Friday afternoon Gilbert Navarro and I were en route to Milwaukee, Wisconsin. At about 3:00 pm, as we walked into our connecting flight in Minneapolis, my cell phone rang. It was a lady named Mystie Heckler, associate producer for the John and Ken Show heard throughout Southern California and which Wikipedia states "is the most listened to local talk radio program in the United States [with] an estimated audience of one million listeners." Mystie had read my comments in Thursday's New York Daily News article about bird and fish deaths and asked if John and Ken could interview me "live" in a few hours at 6:00 pm pacific time "about all the dead birds and fish. Are we in the End of Days?" "Yes, of course," was my instant reply.

But here was my BIG MISTAKE: I thought Milwaukee was on eastern time, and thus I assumed that the interview would occur at 9:00 pm Milwaukee time. Arriving in Milwaukee, at about 5:30 that evening, I calmly told the receptionist of our hotel that I was expecting a phone call at 9:00 pm, and to transfer it to my room. Shortly thereafter, I left and went to a large church to attend their Friday night service. At about 7:15 pm I mentioned my upcoming 9:00 pm (or so I thought) interview, and the entire church gathered around me for special prayer. I then took my seat in a pew.

At about 7:53 pm, for some strange reason, I felt compelled to get out of my seat and walk back into the church lobby where I then spoke to a man who just happened to say, "Milwaukee is on Central Time." My face turned pale. Glancing down, my watch read "7:58 pm." "Oh no! My interview is in 2 minutes!"
receptionist said, "Oh, Mr. Wohlberg, someone just called for you. She said she would call your cell phone." To make matters worse, I had left my cell phone in my hotel room. "If she calls back, give her this number," I said, giving her the number of the cell phone of the man I had just met in the church lobby. Within seconds, Mystie must have called the hotel front desk again, because seconds later, my friend's cell phone rang. It was Mystie. "Are you ready?" she asked earnestly. Fortunately again, my friend had a very hi-tech cell phone with an excellent headset and microphone. "Ready," I replied, praying a quick silent prayer. Seconds later I was "live" throughout Southern California and a million+ listeners heard me talk about Matthew 24, Luke 21:11, mankind "destroying the earth" (Rev. 11:18), other signs like earthquakes, famines, pestilences, economic uncertainty, terrorist threats, the soon return of Jesus Christ, the destruction of Satan and sin, the end of child abuse, sickness, pain, and death, and God's new earth filled with eternal love (Revelation 21:1).

7-8 minutes later, the interview was over, and my head was spinning. I then realized how dramatically God had just answered the prayers of the church by impressing me to leave the pew early, leading me to my friend, and helping me not to miss that big interview.

"Thank you Jesus!"

FYI, someone just sent me this:
