Love Box – yes, filled with love. When was the last time you received one? What did it do to you? Okay, so maybe you’ve never gotten one in the mail. You probably did when you were a kid. Remember that lunch your mom, dad, or sister prepared for you each day when you were in school? Oh, Yeah!

How about passing some love on to an unexpected person from your church this week?

Oh, it could be anyone you choose. A student away at school – help them remember that they still have a church family who cares for them. A person serving in the military – help them realize that they are not forgotten by their church family. A missionary on the other side of the world – help them recognize that they are being supported by their church family.

Okay – this is so easy to do. The next time you make out your grocery list, add some lunch items like you used to do. The next time you bake cookies, make an extra dozen. The next time you go to church, grab an extra bulletin and an old Insight or Guide magazine. And the next time you go to the post office, get a free flat-rate box. If you are sending to a military person deployed overseas, be sure and get the one marked APO/FPO, and a declaration sheet. The postmaster will help you figure this out. It’s very simple – just ask.

Take these items home and start filling the box...
Love Boxes

with your stuff & your love and prayers. A couple packs of gum & a prayer, a can of Vega Links or Big Franks & a prayer, a bag of hotdog buns & a prayer, those cookies you baked & a prayer, some pudding cups & a prayer, some graham crackers, chocolate bars, marshmallow spread & a prayer, and don’t forget some carrot and celery sticks & a prayer. Throw in that church bulletin and magazine, a local newspaper, and a handwritten card filled with love & a prayer.

Grab some tape and seal up the box. Get the address from that lucky military parent or college student’s grandparent. And with $15 drop your Love Box off at the post office with one last prayer.

Now why couldn’t this become a way of life? Why not do this once a quarter (every 3 months) for someone in your church? Who wouldn’t like to be remembered like this? Model this a few times and then invite your Sabbath School class to join you. Ask them to bake the cookies or provide the crackers. Distribute your shopping list items and do this as a Sabbath School class project — why not?

Love Boxes make a difference in the hearts of others. Filled with love and prayers, how could they not? Oregon Pathfinders do this every fall at Pathfinder Teen Retreat. Come to the Gladstone Camp Meeting this July and join us on Friday afternoon in the One-day Church as we again prepare Love Boxes.

Visit the “Love Boxes for Our Troops website at www.loveboxesforourtroops.com for more ideas.

Editor’s note… the end of this month we will celebrate Memorial Day. As you enjoy time with family and friends please take a few moments to remember those who are serving in our military overseas right now and won’t be able to be with their family and friends this year. Help make this Memorial Day a little happier for them and send a Love Box a week or two in advance!

An American in India

At 6:00 am I awoke to the eerie sound of morning prayers blaring from the outside speakers of the Mosque across from my hotel. I sat straight up in bed trying to figure out where I was. Oh yeah, India. After twenty hours of flying and the predictable jet lag that followed, I needed my rest but there was no way I was going back to sleep. My three week adventure in which I would travel thousands of miles across India had just begun.

My favorite experience was visiting an orphanage. The children were so excited to see us and they were eager to show us around. The boys showed me their sleeping area. I saw what at first looked like bunk beds with very thin mattresses. Imagine my surprise when I laid my hand on a bed and found that the mattress was nothing more than a piece of plywood covered by a thin blanket. Their life seemed so basic and simple, yet their smiles and laughter were so real and contagious that I feel shame at even the thought of complaining about what I do or do not have.

Some of the boys were telling me how they loved to play volleyball. I told them I loved volleyball too. They promptly asked me to come back and play with them. I told them that I did not think that I would have the time but I would try, knowing full well that there was probably no way with our jam-packed schedule that it would ever happen. As I was about to leave, the boys lined up and, one by one, stood square in front of me, looked me straight in the eye, firmly shook my hand, told me their name, and said “don’t forget me.” I thought about all of the people that had forgotten these children and the hard life they must live. I soon had to disappear into the dark Indian night as the tears ran slowly down my face.

Back in my hotel room later that night I woke up, knowing that I had to do something for those kids. The next morning I talked to the young Indian men that were with us and asked them to find me enough ice-cream for 150 children. We took ice-cream to the orphanage and handed it out to all of the boys and girls and then played volleyball. What a game it was! Every ball that came over the net the boys would set up for me, and every time I hit the ball back over the net a loud cheer would go up as if I had done something spectacular. Those kids loved the ice-cream but what they really wanted most of all was someone to remember them.

I have seen an incredible amount of pain and misery both at home and around the world and I know you have too. I would ask anyone reading this story to pray this prayer with me…

Those kids loved the ice cream but what they really wanted most of all was someone to remember them.

Jesus, I have traveled in this strange and miserable land long enough. I want to go home. Whatever must be done to finish the work, wherever I should go, whatever I must do, here I am, send me.

— Jim Reynolds

NOTE: If you would like to hear more about Jim’s trip to India he will be doing a photo presentation on Sabbath, May 14 at 2:30pm at the Gladstone Park Adventist Church in Gladstone, Ore.
Pam Proudfit and Wanda Vaz, both chaplains at Adventist Medical Center in Portland, Ore., were granted commissioned minister credentials during a special ceremony held at the hospital April 15, 2011.

Pam Proudfit was born and raised in Jamaica. In 1988 she moved to the United States, where she began her secondary education in the medical field with a degree in Respiratory Therapy, and a degree in Dietetics. Then she felt the call to ministry and Pam continued on with a Master of Divinity from Andrews Theological Seminary.

Wanda Vaz was born in San Antonio, Texas and raised in Florida. At Southern Adventist University she began her studies in psychology and religion, transferring later to Andrews University. After college, Wanda felt a call to the seminary to study to be a chaplain. In 2006 Wanda joined the Adventist Health Hospice team as a chaplain.

Pam and Wanda will continue on in their current positions at Portland Adventist Medical Center.

More than 900 registered to attend the Origins Summit at the Holden Convention Center in Gladstone, Ore., April 1 and 2. Origins — a provocative seminar dealing with issues of science and creation was a four-part series beginning Friday evening, and continuing throughout Saturday with themes such as Biblical and Philosophical Issues, Life and Ancestry, and Geological Issues and Time. The entire event contained 18 20-minute sessions and four 40-minute question and answer periods. Presenters included some of the most respected scholars and research scientists in geology, paleontology, biology, genetics and theology. It was like drinking from a fire hydrant but well worth attending. As one attendee said “Wow, how could one believe that we were not created?”

Speakers included James Gibson, a historical biologist and director of the Geoscience Research Institute in Loma Linda, Calif. Arthur Chadwick, professor of geology and biology at Southwestern Adventist University in Keene, Texas and director of the Earth History Research Center. Ronny Nalin, professor of geology at La Sierra University and a research scientist at the Geoscience Research Institute. Ekkehardt Mueller, associate director of the Biblical Research Institute. Timothy Standish, who currently holds a research position at the Geoscience Research Institute and Leonard Brand Loma Linda University professor of biology and paleontology for the university’s Department of Earth and Biological Sciences. They spoke on issues ranging from Why We Should Care About Creation and Science? to Radioisotope Dating and everything in between!

Though the weekend did prove to be a great amount of information in a short amount of time it also proved to be a great blessing to many who attended.

If you weren’t able to attend or did attend and would like to have this summit in your media collection you can order the video DVD or audio CD set by visiting www.oregonconference.org.

AdventistGiving enables you to return your tithe and give offerings online while you do your online banking, are away on a business trip or vacation, or if you are unable to attend church due to an illness. If you desire to give back to the Lord all of your firstfruits as soon as you have them, you can do it immediately through AdventistGiving.

As of March 31, 2011, 926 churches in the North American Division were using AdventistGiving, and another 418 churches were in the process of enrolling. Out of 152 churches and companies in the Oregon Conference, 46 were using AdventistGiving, with an additional five churches in the enrollment process. Of the 1,117 online transactions for the Oregon Conference last quarter, 27% were via credit/debit card, and 73% were with electronic check. This is one of the lowest card/check ratios in the North Pacific Union — a good thing!

Bank charges for credit/debit card transactions are nearly 2% of the donation amount, while just 18 cents is charged for each electronic check transaction. Fees for these online transactions are split between the General Conference, North American Division, the Union and the Conference. Using the electronic check option with AdventistGiving results in lower bank fees, thus keeping more funds available for ministry.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE WRAP-UP

Last Thursday, the Oregon Conference Executive Committee met to receive reports and make decisions that would impact our conference for the next several months. Following study and prayer time in the Book of Acts, we received a report from our Communication Department on projects and events that they have played a key role in. One of the projects being developed is a video and booklet being created for our new members. The intent is to share a broad picture of the Adventist church as well as introduce the Oregon Conference activities and resources to members whose experience has been just at the local church. Our communication department is also working to pull together all the information needed to make camp meeting a success. Also, the department recently did an excellent job of advertising our Origins Conference, which was very well attended. Over 900 people registered for the event which happened the first weekend in April.

FINANCE REPORT

As you may have heard, our treasury department is going through a transitional stage right now. Jon Corder has accepted a position at the North Pacific Union Conference, which has left a vacancy in our administrative team. We have begun searching for a replacement and have asked Dale Beaulieu to fill the position temporarily while the search progresses. Dale and John Rogers shared the financial report at executive committee which included both positive and challenging areas that our conference has experienced during this first quarter of the year. During the first three months of last year we received some extraordinary tithe gifts which along with the regular tithe gave us the needed boost to begin a recovery from the previous year. This year we have not received those tithe contributions and generally tithe is not as strong as last year resulting in a difference of $850,000 less than last year at this time. This seems like a huge loss in tithe, which it is, but we are reminded that God has called this conference to fulfill His commission and as we do that He will supply our needs as He sees fit. There was also good news shared that during our financially challenging times our cost for operating the conference has continued to decline. We are extremely close to costs per day below $100,000 which means we are under budget in expenses. Given the fact that costs for most areas continue to rise, we see this as a miracle from God.

The executive committee voted to freeze the mileage rate for this current quarter. Ordinarily we adjust the mileage rate every quarter based on the average cost of fuel. With costs escalating the committee asked that we study the impact of changes to the mileage rate on both our pastors and on our budget for the year. It seems like such a small thing to raise the rate a penny at a time but each penny raised results in a $25,000/year impact on our budget.

We have finally filled the Association Treasurer position that has been open for a number of months. We recently welcomed John Jokela from Minnesota to our staff. John comes from a strong base of experience in non-profit corporation accounting, including work as an elected city treasurer in Minnesota. He has been here for a month and the plans now include moving his family here this month. We are blessed to have John here.

BIBLE WORKER TRAINER

Our Member Ministries Department has developed a concept to assist in supporting the outreach of our churches. The concept voted by the executive committee last week is to provide churches with the option of having a quarter-time Bible Worker Trainer for a year. A portion of that year the trainer would be used in providing a three month intensive training program for members involved in ministry as well as coordinating a local evangelistic series. The rest of the year would be spent in developing a culture of members in ministry within the local leadership teams and in creating a support program for the members who are involved in reaching their community. The cost to the churches would be split between the four churches covering two thirds and the conference covering the other one third.

ASSOCIATE EDUCATION SUPERINTENDENTS

With the recent reassignment of Peggy Fisher back into teaching and the coming retirement of two of our part-time superintendents, we have found the need to add two associate superintendents into our Education Department. After looking at a number of names and resumes, the executive committee has asked two of our own educators to join the conference education department. We are excited to ask Carol McLeod, currently the principal and 1-2 grade teacher in Lincoln City, and Dale Milam the Vice Principal for Academics at Milo Academy to serve as Associate Superintendents. We will still need to replace John Gatchet, who is beginning to dream in vivid color about retirement at the end of next month; which brings us to the next item.

MAY 12 ELECTION PROCESS

When a Vice President position is vacated, a process driven by our by-laws is put in place. We will bring both the nominating committee from our last constituency session and the current executive committee together to make the decisions necessary to fill the vacated positions. On May 12 we will be meeting at the conference to choose individuals to fill the positions vacated by Jon Corder and John Gatchet. I want to ask that you join us in praying that God will guide the committee in making these decisions.

— Al Reimche, Oregon Conference President

NEW REGULATIONS FOR CHURCH NURSERY CRIBS

COMMITTEE STUDIES NORTH AMERICAN PUBLISHING WORK
Two historic Adventist publishing houses in North America, Review and Herald Publishing Association in Hagerstown, Md., and Pacific Press Publishing Association in Nampa, Idaho, are an important focus of a world church committee formed to study issues of mission and efficiency. Dan Jackson, North American Division president, says the committee will be looking at ways the NAD can strengthen the publishing operations of the church and encourage better efficiency. An additional part of the discussion will be looking at North America’s relationship with the world-church-owned publishing houses.

KACS RADIO PLANS INCLUDE EXPANSION
An established Adventist radio station based in Chehalis, Wash., is preparing to expand its outreach in the near future. KACS 90.5 FM, which currently serves nearly 10,000 listeners each week, hopes to increase its outreach significantly with several technical improvements. “We are excited over the approval we have for a signal modification that will allow us to reach all of Tacoma, Wash.” says Cameron Beierle, general manager. KACS capital project plans include additional towers, translators to extend the signal, backup generators and updating emergency-alert system equipment. These improvements, once completed, will help KACS cover a population base exceeding two million people.

GRUESBECK TAKES NEW ROLE
Lon Gruesbeck is stepping down as Washington Conference vice president of education after 13 years in that role. He will become the third trust officer for the conference, filling a position left open since the retirement of Gaylene Wolkwitz in 2010. He will continue to serve in the education department until a replacement is found.

CHURCH LEADERS ACKNOWLEDGE NEED FOR BETTER TRANSPARENCY
During a Spring Meeting business session at Oakwood University in Huntsville, Ala., world church leaders responded to a 12-page document on transparency which addressed concerns arising from a recent report from the General Conference auditing services. The GCAS report raised concerns about recurring unresolved issues which appear in routine audits and called for an improved church leadership culture of accountability. Ted Wilson, world church president, says that further discussions on this topic will be held at this year’s Annual Council in October.

AWR-GUAM TO EXPAND OUTREACH TO CHINA
The Adventist World Radio board of directors has approved a conceptual plan to expand the capabilities of its shortwave broadcasting facility on the island of Guam to more effectively cover China. Current transmitter equipment includes six towers, four curtain antennas and five transmitters. Each curtain antenna is the size of two football fields. Yet, even these massive arrays cannot effectively reach listeners in northern China, Mongolia, Siberia and beyond. Adding a fifth antenna will enable AWR to cover these unreached areas. AWR hopes the installation of the new tower and antenna can be completed by the end of 2012, which is the Guam station’s 25th-anniversary year.

NEW CHILDREN’S MINISTRIES WEBSITE
Check out the new Adventist Children’s Ministries Association (ACMA) website. It has a new look. A 1-year membership fee of $29.95 gives leaders in Children’s Ministries access to a huge resource library and a 1-year subscription of Kids’ Ministry Ideas. Visit www.acma-online.org for more information.

US NEWS & WORLD REPORT RANKS LLU MEDICAL CENTER NO. 1
Loma Linda University Medical Center (LLUMC) tops 40 other hospitals in new metro-area rankings released by U.S. News & World Report on March 29. LLUMC’s rankings note high performance in seven specialties — cancer, diabetes and endocrinology, ear, nose, and throat; gynecology, kidney disorders; pulmonary care; and urology — nearly half of the 16 specialty categories considered. For the full list of metro area rankings, visit www.usnews.com/hospitals.

LA SIERRA GRANTED ADDITIONAL YEAR TO PROVE CREATION COMPLIANCE
Mark Kellner of the Adventist Review reports La Sierra University has received an extension of its denominational accreditation until Dec. 31, 2012. This action during the biennial Adventist Accreditation Association board meeting held April 4 in Silver Spring, Md., allows the university “to act upon its commitments and implement changes and enhancements” involving the teaching of origins. The board’s decision is in response to nearly two years of controversy regarding the university’s teaching philosophy on issues of origins, evolution and creation. The extension allows time for remedial change. Larry Becker, LSU spokesperson, says “The board, administration and faculty are already working together to ensure that we provide the outstanding Adventist education desired by our students, our constituents, and our church.”

PREST ACCEPTS IDAHO PRESIDENCY
Don Klinger, Idaho Conference vice president for administration, confirms David Prest Jr. has accepted the invitation of the conference executive committee to become the new conference president. Prest, who currently directs ministerial and trust service departments for the Montana Conference, has not yet announced a date for his transition to Idaho. “It had been a privilege to serve the Lord and His people during the past ten years in the Montana Conference,” says Prest. “My family and I have been truly blessed. As we begin a new chapter in the story of the Idaho Conference, I ask for your prayers and support as we move forward together in Jesus Christ.” The conference constituency session is scheduled for May 22. Delegates to the session will also address the replacement of Harold Dixon, who plans to retire as vice president for finance.

ADRA BOARD APPROVES RestrUCTURING PLAN
Adventist Development and Relief Agency directors voted April 6 to accept the organization’s leadership report on a February reorganization in which 17 full-time employees were terminated. The eight-hour board of directors meeting included Ted N. C. Wilson, world church president and ADRA board member. The 37-member ADRA board includes 12 of the world church’s 13 division presidents, and other Adventist leaders with experience in overseas development projects. Additional staff reductions are not expected in the immediate future. The ADRA board established a committee to study the strategic mission of the agency. Most of the agency’s revenue comes from United States government contracts, such as the United States Agency for International Development. Only about 10 percent of ADRA’s income is received from private donations. Read the full story at http://bit.ly/huyHLr.

THREE ADVENTIST MEMBERS DIE IN SOUTHERN STORMS
Two members of the Owkney Chapel Seventh-day Adventist Church in North East Alabama and one member of the Aipison Seventh-day Adventist Church in South-eastern Tennessee were tragically killed during Wednesday’s tornadic outbreak that ripped across the southern United States on April 27. Throughout the Southern Union, there are also numerous reports of members’ homes and church property being damaged and destroyed. BEE’S PARADISE
