

Adjunct Faculty Membership (Andrews University Working Policy 2:123:2)

Adjunct faculty membership is assigned to a person who is employed by the university on a less than forty-five percent salary basis for teaching, research or clinical assistance and/or who holds special, or a temporary instructional/academic rank (see policy #2:306:1) in one or more of the constituent schools of the university. Such a person does not normally have any standing committee, academic advising, or regular assignments as part of the load for which he/she is remunerated.

Persons holding adjunct faculty membership in a constituent school of the university may attend faculty meetings on invitation in the school(s) where they hold rank. Persons holding adjunct faculty membership in constituent schools are not members of the General Faculty (see also policies #2:124:1 and 2:212).
