DOCTOR OF MINISTRY

October, 2009

The Doctor of Ministry Project

You are at different places in your DMin journey, but wherever you are I encourage you to keep moving forward. Those who successfully complete the DMin journey are those who set aside consistent time each week to work on their project. How are you doing this week?

Remember, it will always be difficult to find time for the DMin project if it is seen as something you do in addition to everything else. Instead you need to see it as an integrated part of your ministry. The DMin project is supposed to be tied into the work you are doing to make a difference in your ministry context.

So push forward and be an agent of change where you are.

Blessings,

Kenley D. Hall

Discipleship & Spiritual Formation, Youth and Young Adult Ministry Concentrations to Launch New Cohorts Soon

Cohorts for both concentrations will launch in February, with some events for the two cohorts combined. February in Orlando, Florida should provide pleasant weather, and the planned venue for the intensives will be convenient to food and lodging options. Some possible fringe benefits in negotiation are a tour of the Celebration Health facility, passes to the Celebration fitness center, and tickets to Disney to fill your free time.

The application deadline is December 1 and spaces are limited. Don't wait until the last minute if you are to make sure one of the places is yours! Call or email today: 1-888-717-6244, dmin@andrews.edu.

DMin Dissertation Defenses

'Tis the season for defending! Several DMin project dissertation defenses are on the horizon. Watch the AU Agenda and Events calendar for details. Participants who reside on campus or locally and those who may be traveling in the area, are encouraged to sit in and observe. Please note that space is limited so, those interested in attending should contact dminla@andrews.edu or call 269-471-3552, to reserve a seat.

Sale on Eerdman's Publications at NADEI Bookstore

In the month of October, Eerdmans Publishing Company is offering over 250 titles at a 35% discount. The titles include commentaries, reference works and other Biblical Studies books.

Visit http://www.nadei.org/site/1/images/Eerdmans_Seminary_Biblical_Studies_Sale_Form.pdf to view the complete list of discounted titles, or you may come to the NADEI Resource Center on the third floor of the Seminary and pick up a copy. You must place your order at the NADEI Resource Center by October 27 to take advantage of this offer. We must combine all the orders into one to submit at the end of the month. Books will be available by order only, we do not have them in the store. The books will arrive at the bookstore and be available for pick-up or shipment to customers sometime in the first half of November. Contact: 1-800-255-7568, resources@nadei.org.
