Senate Discussion & Announcements

[3] ETLC & CTL Updates (A. Coria-Navia)

Provided an update regarding the recent gift that allows for a FT Innovation director position (the search committee is being put together currently). For Fall 2021, the plan is to reopen for the fall and lift the COVID-19 protocol; question re. masks, social distancing, guest speakers, etc.: We are making that projection on the premise that 70-80% of our students are vaccinated (precedent set by the CDC); if we meet that threshold then we meet the standard for community immunity. Once we reach this threshold we can also bring guests to campus and have classrooms at full capacity. Part of the discussion included bringing in and engaging with, supporting minority students. Is Thanksgiving break still in the picture, and traditional fall break: yes, that is the planning right now (they are checking with sister institutions). We would have the right to choose to continue to wear masks. We will not be offering COVID-19 tests, but will offer vaccination clinics in the fall. Are there any Zoom classes, asynchronous or synchronous? We are not going to strongly encourage that you do like we did for Fall 2020, it will be left up to deans and departments, if they want to keep going with zoom courses, but the university will not require that expectation. Are the travel rules going to be relaxed? Dr. Arthur: Domestic, relaxed, international--look at the CDC for which areas still have the virus worse than others; persons who are not vaccinated, the university will put restrictions on university funded travel for those individuals; Field trips: students and employees will have to show proof of vaccination as part of the restrictions. The phone application for reporting symptoms has not been discussed yet. There are exceptions based on certain programs that require travel that need to be considered. Will we be having a conversation regarding the resources that were pulled back like administrative assistants, budget cuts, etc.? Do we have a sense of a timeline for replenishing resources? Dr. Arthur: sometime over the summer towards Fall the deans and faculty will be engage regarding a reasonable timeline for lifting the restrictions on resources. There will possibly be all employee meetings over the summer for more questions (this Q&A ran for an hour).
