The University

Andrews University is a Christian institution operated by the Seventh-day Adventist Church. Originally established in 1874 in Battle Creek, Michigan, the school was relocated and reestablished in Berrien Springs, Michigan, in 1901.

A doctoral-degree-granting institution, the university comprises the College of Arts and Sciences, the College of Technology, the School of Architecture and Interior Design, the School of Business, the School of Education, and the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary.

The University encourages its students to study, practice, and develop an active religious experience. Through corporate worship, community service, and a common concern for all, Andrews University students are led to develop a philosophy that makes them Christians not just in name, but in deed.

Andrews Bible Commentary

Light. Depth. Truth.

Ángel Manuel Rodríguez

General Editor

The Andrews Bible Commentary is a companion to the Andrews Study Bible. Together they provide a remarkably comprehensive and concise Bible study resource.

The Andrews Bible Commentary was written by 60 leading biblical scholars from around the world. It's designed for the new believer, the experienced Bible student, pastors, and teachers. Its purpose is to trace the blessed hope (Titus 2:13) in the pages of Scripture and to read all of the Bible in the light of that hope.

What does the Bible say to believers who, with both longing and joy, anticipate the return of Jesus? Answering that question is at the heart of the Andrews Bible Commentary, which seeks to instruct and inspire all to form a stronger personal relationship with God that focuses worship on Jesus as Savior and Lord.

"The Andrews Bible Commentary is a monumental work produced by outstanding theologians and scholars in a readable, inspirational style that is understandable for the average person. It reveals hidden gems of inspiration as well as deep theological insights. My preaching, teaching and writing will be much richer because of this valuable tool."

—Mark Finley, World Evangelist

The Genesis Creation Account and Its Reverberations in the New Testament

Edited by Thomas R. Shepherd

When the first two chapters of Genesis say that God created our world and the human race in a particular way, did the Bible really mean that? If not, can it really mean what it says about everything else, particularly the grand themes of redemption and eschatology? This work provides a detailed cultural, historical, and theological background to the creation theme and section-by-section exegetical studies of how that theme is illuminated by the various New Testament writers. Is creation a major theme in the New Testament? This volume answers that question with a resounding “yes.”

The Genesis Creation Account and Its Reverberations in the Old Testament

Edited by Gerald A. Klingbeil

How does the rest of the Bible relate to Genesis 1 and 2? Do the various biblical authors portray creation theologies that align or diverge? Textual data of the Old Testament clearly portray an overarching understanding and theology of creation that permeates every biblical genre and book. A digital copy of this volume is now available for free, courtesy of the Faith and Science Council at www.adventistlearningcommunity.com/genesis-account.

Ranko Stefanovic is professor of New Testament at the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary at Andrews University in Michigan. He holds a PhD degree from Andrews University and is a well-loved teacher, popular speaker, and author of scholarly articles.

Plain Revelation

Ranko Stefanovic

In today's world, no other part of the Bible inspires so much interest, speculation, sensationalism, and confusion as the book of Revelation. Paradoxically, no other book of the Bible inspires so much confusion as does Revelation. In this concise reader's introduction, Revelation expert Ranko Stefanovic makes it all plain and simple. In a straight-forward, no-nonsense way, the author leads us scene by scene through this amazing panorama of cosmic war and glory. Through it all, we see the astounding picture of a Creator God who wins it all with justice and love as Jesus Christ is plainly revealed as King of Kings and Lord of Lords.

“Aunque todos los libros de la Biblia fueron inspirados por Dios, ningún otro libro de las Sagradas Escrituras presenta a Jesucristo como su autor, ni muestra el futuro como lo hace el Apocalipsis. En esta versión abreviada de su comentario del libro del Apocalipsis, el Dr. Stefanovic transmite con fluidez y claridad los conceptos principales de su obra original. Este libro debiera ser leído por todos aquellos que vivimos en la undécima hora de la historia de nuestro planeta.”

Jacques B. Doukhan, DHebLett, ThD, is professor emeritus of Hebrew and Old Testament exegesis at the Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary and director emeritus of the Institute of Jewish-Christian Studies at Andrews University. He is General Editor for the Seventh-day Adventist International Bible Commentary.

Daniel 11 Decoded

Jacques Doukhan

Daniel 11 is widely described as one of the most cryptic, complex texts in the Bible. Perhaps more than any other, it uses seemingly heavily coded language while ostensibly describing world events from the Persian period to our day. Thus, credible attempts by faithful scholars to read that code can lead in markedly different directions.

Writing from a solidly historicist perspective on prophetic interpretation, Jacques Doukhan lays the groundwork for this masterful study of Daniel 11 by (1) critiquing the history of its interpretation; (2) observing its literary context; (3) closely examining its relationship to Daniel 8; (4) decoding the meaning of particular expressions; and (5) giving particular attention to the words, grammar, and literary structure of the chapter.

The bulk of Doukhan's book is comprised of a verse-by-verse exegesis and commentary on the biblical text, with a methodical appeal to other sources from the history of interpretation. Throughout the years, Doukhan's own unique interpretation of Daniel 11 has been affirmed and critiqued by his academic peers. His mature view is presented here as a milestone on the pathway of our understanding.

Biblical Hebrew Reviewer

A Universal Study Companion

Oliver Glanz

This minimalist booklet provides the student of biblical Hebrew with a panoramic view of the morphological forms of the language. Its convenient and concise format is a helpful study supplement to any textbook. Using this booklet will greatly facilitate the learning process for anyone diving into biblical Hebrew. Rehearsing the paradigms provided in this book on a regular basis will make reading biblical Hebrew easier and will streamline the task of exegesis.

Servants and Friends

A Biblical Theology of Leadership

Edited by Skip Bell

Twenty Bible scholars and ministry professionals thoughtfully grapple with what the Scriptures, in their totality, actually have to teach us about the essence of true leadership. They examine and correlate the breadth of evidence for true leadership in the Old and New Testaments, tracing the nature of God's intent and bringing it all together in a fresh and challenging theological understanding that may radically alter what we have thought leadership really is.

Earthly Shadows Heavenly Realities

Temple/Sanctuary Cosmology in Ancient Near Eastern, Biblical, and
Early Jewish Literature

Edited by Kim Papaioannou and Ioannis Giantzaklidis

So what ever happened to the temple? In this unique collection of essays, the writers direct our attention to where the early Christians looked—to the reality of the sanctuary in heaven. An obvious and often overlooked theme endemic to both Testaments, it has profound ramifications for faithful Christian theology today.

God with Us

An Introduction to Adventist Theology

John C. Peckham

The story of Scripture is largely the story of God making a way to overcome sin and defeat evil so that God can be with us in fullness. That is, the story of Scripture is the story of God's desire to be specially and personally present with us in a union of love.

We hear so often: "You ask too many questions." "You just don't have enough faith." Or "We should not ask questions like that!" However, the better we come to know God, the more we come to love Him and the less threatened we are by honest questions. Truth loses nothing by close investigation. To wrestle with God is acceptable, even as Jacob did (Gen. 32), as long as you refuse to let go of Him.

This book is an introduction to Christian theology from an Adventist perspective. It is written in a reader-friendly, "theology for everyone" format that can serve both as an introductory college textbook and as a sourcebook for general readers seeking to deepen their biblical knowledge and faith.

It encourages readers to ask, seek, and knock, as Jesus Himself invited people to do, and allows readers to see biblical teachings for themselves by offering a biblically-based introduction to the main elements of Adventist theology.

Salvation

Contours of Adventist Soteriology
Edited by Martin F. Hanna, Darius W. Jankiewicz and John W. Reeve

Salvation strongly affirms Adventism’s Protestant soteriological roots, built on the work of the seventeenth-century Reformer Jacob Arminius. Following the Protestant principles of sola gratia et fides and solī Deo gloria, this book is organized according to the five tenets of Arminianism: Conditional Election, Unlimited Atonement, Total Depravity, Resistible Grace, and Christian Assurance/Sanctification. This is a book for our time on the great theme that will be our study for all eternity.

The Lost Meaning of the Seventh Day

Sigve K. Tonstad

This sweeping work of biblical theology and historical analysis traces the profound meaning of the seventh-day Sabbath throughout Scripture and history. It also investigates how this universal symbol became obscured and considers its relation to social issues in our time.

“Sigve Tonstad’s wide-ranging study of biblical teaching about the Sabbath . . . is a luminous, deeply encouraging book that beckons readers to understand the seventh day as a celebration of God’s gracious work of creation and God’s faithful intent to restore and heal all that is broken.”

Jesus of Nazareth

His Life, His Message, His Passion
William G. Johnsson

William G. Johnsson draws from his many years of firsthand experience teaching about the life and teachings of Jesus in a university setting to provide educators with this invaluable teaching resource. This textbook allows the Gospels themselves to tell the story of Jesus, but adds further insights from the works of Ellen G. White and other relevant literature to help enrich student understanding. The Jesus who emerges from this study is a dynamic person—amazing, challenging, and altogether wonderful.

Design and Catastrophe

51 Scientists Explore Evidence in Nature

Edited by L. James Gibson, Ronny Nalin, and Humberto M. Rasi

In this unique book, 51 professional scientists, men and women of faith from a wide range of disciplines, provide short essays in their respective areas of expertise demonstrating some aspect of the design:catastrophe paradigm. Though written by experts, the essays are easily accessible to non-specialists, making this book extremely useful in the college and seminary classroom, and for the lifelong learner.

Design and Catastrophe does not attempt to prove the veracity of the biblical account of origins and a global Flood as recorded in the book of Genesis. Rather, in these 51 essays, it richly samples the overwhelming evidence of design and catastrophe in the world around us.

“These essays on earth and life sciences, physics, mathematics and astronomy ably illustrate that Scripture provides a solid platform from which to explore the natural world through scientific research. This delightful and compelling book reveals the real scientific truth about design and catastrophe to the glory of the Ultimate Designer and to the One who sat as King over the mabbul, the global Flood of Genesis (Ps. 29:10).”

–John T. Baldwin, professor emeritus of theology, Seventh-day Adventist Theological Seminary, Andrews University

Faith, Reason, and Earth History, 3rd ed.

A Paradigm of Earth and Biological Origins by Intelligent Design

Leonard Brand and Arthur Chadwick

This volume presents an argument for constructive thinking about origins and earth history in the context of Scripture, showing readers how to analyze available scientific data and approach unsolved problems. Faith does not need to fear the data, but can contribute to progress in understanding earth history within the context of God’s Word while still being honest about unanswered questions.

The original edition of this work (1997) was one of the first books on this topic written from the point of view of an experienced research scientist. This fully updated third edition includes additional contributions from co-author Arthur Chadwick. In this patient explanation of the mission of science and its application to questions about origins and earth history, the authors model their conviction that “above all, it is essential that we treat each other with respect, even if we disagree on fundamental issues.”

This thoughtful and rigorous presentation makes this landmark work highly useful both as a college-level text and as an easily accessible treatment for the interested layperson.

Faith and Learning Series

The Faith and Learning series, co-sponsored by the Center for College Faith at Andrews University and the Department of Education of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, addresses the challenge of teaching “secular” material in a way that meets the Christian’s goal of building faith not only in the Christian message but also in the Adventist understanding of Christianity and in its mission to the world. Teachers and students can turn to these supplemental texts for insights about how to weave faith into their studies.

Educating for Eternity

A Seventh-day Adventist
Philosophy of Education

George R. Knight

Writing both for the layperson and the professional educator, George Knight crafts a bracing, inspiring, and invigorating reminder of what serious Adventists must demand from their schools—and from their educators.

Philosophy and Education, 4th ed.

An Introduction in Christian Perspective

George R. Knight

Philosophy and Education has been a classic in its field for more than a quarter of a century. Features of this edition, including a new chapter on the Christian teacher in the public school setting and “Points to Ponder” study questions, make it even more useful in educational philosophy classrooms.

Issues and Alternatives in Educational Philosophy, 4th ed.

George R. Knight

This book highlights the relationship between theory and practice and is suitable for undergraduate students in educational philosophy, graduate students who need a quick review of the topic, and teachers of educational philosophy who want their students to spend maximum time in primary sources while using a comprehensive text for orientation and overview.

The Madaba Plains Project series reports on seasonal findings from the excavations at Tall al-'Umayri and vicinity conducted by a consortium of colleges and universities including Andrews University. In its field reports and descriptions of the various seasons, this series provides analyses of such aspects as the food and water systems, sedentarization, nomadization, ancient environment, and ceramic and small finds.

Sutherland House

Originally named Brooknook because of its vantage point overlooking Lemon Creek, a tributary of the St. Joseph River, Sutherland House was built in 1902. It was the first building erected on the Andrews University campus when the institution, then known as Battle Creek College, was moved to Berrien Springs, Michigan, and renamed Emmanuel Missionary College in the fall of 1901. The spacious two-story structure was built as the home for the school’s president, Edward A. Sutherland, and was later used variously through the years as a women’s residence, infirmary, and housing for married students. By the early 1980s it was in a very poor condition and was slated for demolition. A University Trustee, Elsie L. Buck, persuaded her colleagues to save the building. Mrs. Buck raised the funds necessary for a complete renovation, and the house re-opened in 1987 as the headquarters for the Institute of World Mission. When that organization moved to new quarters in the Seminary building, Sutherland House, with the addition of a new “carriage house” that serves as the warehouse, became the home of Andrews University Press in 2005.
