MINUTES APPROVED

Robert Wilkins presented a recommendation from the Academic Policies Subcommittee regarding students who have been home schooled. (See attached.) Discussion centered on the following: (1) how to handle financial aid for students without a high school diploma; (2) whether or not the GED should be required of such students; (3) whether or not the ACT or SAT should be required of such students. The committee recommended the following changes in wording. For #2: Add "GED or" to the beginning of the sentence. For #3: Delete the word "Preferably" at the beginning of the sentence.

ADMISSION OF HOME-SCHOOLED STUDENTS

The council voted to refer the proposal for admission of students who are home schooled back to the subcommittee for further refinement with the understanding that the chair would ask for approval of the revised proposal by e-mail prior to the Bulletin copy deadline of Nov. 1.

VOTED: PROPOSAL ON HOME-SCHOOLED
STUDENTS REFERRED BACK TO SUBCOMMITTEE

Robert Wilkins then introduced the second part of the report from the Academic Policies Subcommittee. This proposal deals with admitting students with an International Baccalaureate (IB). (See attached..) Andrews University already has a few students with the IB. Dr. Wilkins noted that many U.S. colleges and universities grant up to one year of college credit based on the IB. The IB is becoming more and more recognized internationally and in the United States as a credible and reliable program somewhat equivalent to the "O" and "A" level programs in the British system.

INTERNATIONAL BACCALAUREATE DISCUSSED

The council voted to refer #2 to the General Education Committee for their consideration:

2. For general education courses that a score of 4 (HL) or 5 (SL) be considered for general education credit.

VOTED: TO REFER TO
THE GENERAL EDUCATION COMMITTEE

The council voted to approve the subcommittee recommendations as worded for # 1 and #3 and to delete #4 from the proposal:

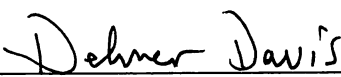

1. The maximum advanced standing credit awarded by AU for Advanced Placement, CLEP, DANTES and the IB will be 32 semester credits.
3. For major level courses that a score of at least 5 (HL) be considered for credit in the major on review of the department. The student could be allowed to enroll in a sophomore level major course with the purpose of validating the IB experience. With a grade of at least B minus in this course, credit for the freshman level major's sequence would be given.
